

That the FCC should not implement any proposal that would lessen Indiana's Telephone Privacy law protections. This law has all but eliminated annoying telemarketers from disturbing our family with unwanted solicitations and improved our time at home. I used to receive as many as 15 calls per week; now I may only get one or two per month, but no repeat calls once they are informed that we are on the telephone privacy listing.

Please allow us to maintain this very effective law and keep unwanted solicitors from intruding on our lives.
